Modern Classics, improved

Delivering quality craftsmanship and classic style, Gibson guitars will always be of the best in the world. Yet, the same technological developments that constantly change and revolutionize the audio industry are also impacting the needs and wishes of modern musicians: Gibson knows this. With the release of the Modern Classic line, Gibson gives a nod to the modern guitarist – the guitarist who needs onboard electronics, cutaways to reach the uppermost frets, modified neck profiles, and setups that allow playability – no matter the style of playing. With these features in mind, Gibson redesigned the entire Modern Classic line to give us premium, handcrafted guitars that play easier, intonate better, sound great plugged in, and stay in tune even better than before. These guitars feature the latest design advancements, including radiused, or rolled fingerboard edges, giving you a fast, comfortable feel. And, with string height lower at the nut, these guitars will also play even easier and intonate better all the way up the neck. Final Gibson touches, including new sound hole labels, sturdy Grover tuners, and premium Fishman pickups, make it easy for you to take your favorite traditional-style Gibson acoustic onto the modern stage with confidence!

Quality construction

All Modern Classic guitars are handcrafted by Gibson in Bozeman, MT, from premium tone woods and components. The SJ-300 Modern Classic features a AAA premium Sitka spruce top and Indian rosewood back and sides. An ebony fingerboard, adorned with abalone crown inlays, is set on a rounded 25-1/2" mahogany neck. The SJ-300 Modern Classic's intricate bridge employs a "mustache" design with abalone bar inlays and white pins. Gold Grover tuners, a top-of-the-line Fishman pickup, and an intricate floral-patterned tortoise pickguard are the final touches on this impressive Gibson masterpiece.

The Super Jumbo

Gibson's Super Jumbo guitars were originally built to cut through the loudest acoustic ensembles, allowing them to compete with the mandolins and banjos that were prevalent in "pre-amplified" times. It's still a thrill to hear the well-balanced sound of a Super Jumbo ring out loud and clear, the maple sides and spruce top pumping out a throaty tone that's equally great for hi-octane strumming and delicate fingerpicking.

Everyone from rockers to country artists to blues greats choose these guitars for their incredible sound, projection, build quality, and, let's face it, stunning looks.
